SCHWAB MUCH PLEASED WITH SHIP YARDS

Makes Inspection and Addresses Men at Both Local Yards--Luncheon at Hotel Wentworth

Director General Charles M. Schwab made his first visit to Portsmouth this morning. Arriving here from Portland he seemed to bring fair weather with his pleasing personality. The Schwab party arrived at the Shattuck shipyard in the company of Mr. L. H. Shattuck and Mr. Robert M. Jackson, president and vice president respectively, of the Newington plant, at precisely 11:20 a. m. With his indefatigable energy he was out of the machine and off leading the party to the shipyard. Photographers had to work fast in order to get him in their focus. The party was made up of many prominent men identified with the United States Shipping Board, including Assistant Director, Plez, District Supervisor Vaughan of Boston, and Mr. Schwab's private secretary, Mr. Miller.

Mr. Schwab had made a thorough inspection of the Shattuck yard by 12 o'clock. At this time he appeared in front of the hotel and was cheered lustily by the twenty-five hundred workmen who had been feverishly awaiting the opportunity to catch a glimpse of the "human dynamo" who has been directing their efforts.

There have been many speeches delivered to the men by able speakers, but there have been none which have brought forth more enthusiasm on the part of the men, or who have touched the right spot with more accuracy than that delivered by Charles Schwab this noon. He expressed his pleasure at seeing Old Glory above each ship as he knew that it represented the patriotic spirit of the men. We know that the spirit and patriotism are not only an outward demonstration but will be followed by an application of a miracle. We have now only half ships enough to take care of about one-third of the men over there. We must let nothing stand in the way of your putting in the best ticks every day for the boys over there. The boys there cannot take a day off. They get $39 a month for what they do. We must do our

Moving forward with sustained power British armies east and south-east of Arras appear to have crashed clear through the Hindenburg line. Dispatches received today seem to indicate that they have begun to roll up the German forces on the line to which the enemy is retreating along the whole Picardy front. Bullecourt, which was on the Hindenburg line, was taken this morning and the Dracourt-Queant switch line is now within striking distance. Further south the British have taken the village of Comblies where there was terrific fighting during the German retirement a year ago last March. West of Peronne the British have captured the town of Clery. Progress southeast of Arras seems to be the most important feature of the news. Canadians are slowly advancing along the Arras-Comblies road and are widening the gap in the famous line to which the Germans retired eighteen months ago. Any great additional British successes in this region may shatter Germany's hope of conducting a defence along this front.

HAIG'S FORCES STILL ADVANCE

(By Associated Press.)
With the British Army in France, Aug. 30.—Blaches, on the south bank of the Somme and about a mile from Peronne has been captured by Field Marshal Haig's forces. British troops have entered Leoboeufs and have passed through Morval to the southeast. The British have made further advances north of Lens. At one place they pushed forward a thousand yards. Les Transloy was reported to have been captured this morning.

Paris, Aug. 30.—The British line north of the Somme has been carried beyond the point indicated in last night's statement from Field Marshal Haig, and the British are now several kilometers east of Comblies, according to reports to the newspapers here. The advance continues, and the fall of Peronne is predicted. The correspondent of Paris newspapers at the front agrees that the Allied losses in the present operations have been comparatively light. They say that the Allies have never taken so many prisoners and guns and so much material and territory at so light a cost.

London, Aug. 30.—British troops have captured Comblies between Bapaume and the Somme, it is officially announced by the British War Office. Advance British troops have crossed the Somme south and west of Peronne. East of the Senesce the forces of Field Marshal Haig made progress, capturing Bullecourt and Hindencourt-les-Cagnolles.

BRITISH TAKE RIENCOURT

(By Associated Press.)
London, Aug. 30.—British forces east of Arras resumed their advance this morning and at an early hour had penetrated another two thousand yards on a front of seven miles between Bullecourt and the Scarpe, according to advices received here. The British forces have reached within a mile of the Dracourt-Queant switch line and have captured Riencourt.

WAR WORKERS HAVE TO WALK

(By Associated Press.)
Boston, Aug. 30.—Thousands of war workers employed in the twenty-two cities and towns near Boston, served by the Boston and Middlesex Street Railway Company, were obliged to walk today because of a strike of union car men. During the early hours traffic on the lines was completely tied up, but later a few cars were operated. The immediate cause of the strike was the refusal of the railway heads to submit the issues involved to the National War Labor Board, as recommended by the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration. Questions of wages and working conditions have been at issue between the contending parties since early in the year.

FOUND FINGER MARKS ON MRS. HALL'S THROAT

Choking May Have Ruptured Blood Vessels, Says Medical Examiner--Pastor Is Held for Grand Jury

Kennebunk, Me., Aug. 30.—Henry H. Hall, pastor of the Baptist church at Wells Depot, Thursday was held for action of the grand jury on a charge of murder. The state charged that on June 11, he choked and beat his wife, Minnie O. Stevens Hall, and pushed her from an unrailed railroad bridge to the rocks of a creek bed and that she died a few hours later of the injuries he inflicted upon her.

The state based its claims in open court when County Attorney Franklin R. Chesley of Saco declared that Hall, clerked his wife and then offered the findings of Medical Examiner Charles F. Traylor of Middleboro that the finger marks of the murderer were plain upon the dead woman's neck when her body was exhumed at Harrington two months after her death. No defense was offered.

Hall joined in the general laugh which followed Deputy Sheriff Jones' statement that Hall tried to persuade the officers to defer his arrest on a murder charge until he could have a good time which he had planned, and that the preacher's chief concern seemed to be that he would lose the $100 he had for a railroad ticket to Portland.

Hall displayed his first emotion Thursday afternoon when his sister, Mary, embraced him. He withstood the order of his arrest, and when he heard himself characterized as a murderer, with a hypocritical and periphrastic one of the most brilliant and outrageous homiletics ever delivered in the courts of this state, he maintained his composure. When his sister broke down and sobbed, Hall gave way to the first outbreak of feeling he has betrayed since he was arrested, nearly two weeks ago.

The meeting between sister and brother was the first since Hall's arrest. Mrs. Hall, accompanied by her brother, George O. Sullivan, arrived at Kennebunk from Harrington early Thursday. They were in the courtroom when Hall appeared, but were not permitted to approach him. Later County Attorney Chesley granted them the privilege of a brief talk with him in a waiting room and Sheriff Roberts withdrew.

When the trial was up the brothers shook hands. Then the sister threw her arms about the preacher's neck and cried. Hall broke down completely and continued to cry as he walked down the stairs to the automobile which was waiting to take him back to jail.

No tragedy was ever played in the Kennebunk Opera House with greater realism than when the accused preacher faced his accusers and heard the state charge that he choked and beat his wife at the lonely railroad culvert within sight of the home of Grace Gerow, to whom he made love. His own child accused him of making her mother's life miserable with his open intimacies with other women, and he smiled as she made the damning statements.

He laughed outright at sallies by his counsel and was amused at the apparent discomfiture of some of the witnesses.

Hall played the role of a stage hero. He revealed in the attention he attracted and throughout the hearing seemed to be enjoying the tragedy of his own life as a comedy-drama of the type which has been the usual attraction in the Opera House.

Early Thursday the streets of Kennebunk were teeming with suppressed excitement. The square about the town hall was filled with automobiles and carriages.

Hall entered from the Alfred jail in the custody of High Sheriff Haven O. Roberts of Sanford, and Sheriff George F. Higgins of Springvale. The prisoner chatted with the officers during the ride. As he stepped from the car he was greeted by several friends whose approach was not forbidden by the sheriff. Many women, for instance, waved their hands as Hall walked toward the town hall door. He smiled and waved his hand as he passed.

Within the hall there was a perfect storm of people, the 700 seating capacity being taxed an hour before the trial commenced. Women scrambled for places in the aisles and on the benches until there was no room left. More than 200 persons were crowded within the hall when the hearing opened.

Hall's former parishioners found seats toward the front and from time to time they caught his eye and smiled greetings to which he responded with nods and smiles.

There was a tense, dramatic moment when Hall displayed his daughter, Frances, and her aged grandmother, Mrs. Frances A. Stevens of Columbin, mother of his dead wife, in the courtroom. Mrs. Stevens and her granddaughter were seated directly behind the prisoner's bench. When Hall and the sheriff walked toward the sister Mrs. Stevens averted her face. Frances glanced at her father, but immediately dropped her gaze without responding to the nod and smile he tendered. Nearby sat the state's witnesses and Hall's former parishioners and for the first five minutes the prisoner was busy exchanging nods with those about him.

Women craned their necks in an effort to watch the preacher. In the front part of the theatre were the tables and chairs for the judge, lawyers and stenographers. Above them was the stage, with the door curtain down, and quite by chance the scene was at a lonely bridge. There were huge rocks in the foreground. It might have been an enlarged picture of the scene where Mrs. Hall fell to her death. Yet Hall was undisturbed by anything the picture may have recalled to his mind.

When Judge Harold H. Bourne walked into the courtroom there was a hush. County Attorney Franklin R. Chesley, with former County Attorney Hiram Willard, representing the state, took their places and Judge Emery with his associate, Homer T. Waterhouse, followed.

County Attorney Chesley opened for the state and charged that Hall was a murderer. Hall merely smiled as he heard the accusing words. The prosecutor stated that he would prove two facts, that a crime was committed because Minnie O. Stevens Hall came to her death through an unknown agency which could not have been self-inflicted and that the accused, Henry H. Hall, deliberately and premeditatedly did the murder.

He reviewed Hall's whole married life, changed that he lived of his wife when she became ill and turned his attentions to other women. He said that Hall contracted disease and carried it into his own home where he told his wife she was no better than he to have the disease. Hall, he said, excused his shortcomings by claiming he was not different from other men.

Hall never smiled as the state's attorney rehearsed his many infamations for women of robust health, and charged that Hall told his wife he was "not going" to tug a sick wife around through life.

There were several clashes between the county attorney and Judge Emery during the opening address, principally because of the state's insistence that Mrs. Hall's statements were admissible in evidence. Mr. Chesley contended that they were not, because of a part of the act, and Judge Bourne sustained him each time. Chesley was whispering in his denunciation of the preacher when he charged that Hall made love to "Katie" Gerow within sight of his home and while his sick wife looked on. When his intimacies with the girl became subject of town gossip Hall confuted them. He pointed out the inconsistencies of Hall's explanations of the happenings at the railroad culvert and his utter indifference when he knew his wife was dying, an indifference which was so great that Hall allowed her to remain in a clump of bushes for 30 minutes when there was a bed of green moss upon which he might have placed her. When assistance was at hand Hall carried his wife's shoulders, but dropped her with a thud.

Throughout his recital of incidents preceding and following the accident the county attorney insisted that Hall was eager to be rid of his sick wife in order that he might give his attention to other women. He abandoned "Katie" Gerow when he discovered she had an older sister, Grace, said the prosecutor. When Mrs. Hall was dying she thought, only of the girl who was to displace her in her husband's affections, and repeated the name "Rest—Rest—Rest" and lapsed into unconsciousness with that name upon her lips. Before he called the first witness Mr. Chesley charged that Hall was proposing marriage to a girl he was infatuated with almost as soon as his wife was laid in her grave.

Dr. Charles F. Traylor, who made the autopsy upon the body of Mrs. Hall, described the marks he found. He revealed the fact that Mrs. Hall was choked before she died, the tell-tale fingermarks standing out on her throat like the marks of a claw. He expressed no opinion as to the manner in which the fingermarks were made, except to state that it was not possible that Mrs. Hall made them. They indicated pressure upon the throat sufficient to rupture the blood vessels. The shock of other injuries which included fractures of the skull, wrists and ribs coupled with concussion of the brain caused death. Dr. L. A. Willard of the Webster Hospital, Biddeford, described the injuries he discovered when he made a superficial examination on the night of Mrs. Hall's death and the next day. He said that when he responded with an ambulance to take Mrs. Hall to the hospital the first person he met was Joseph Waterhouse, an undertaker. Hall did not accompany his wife to the hospital and on the trip she murmured "Rest—Rest—Rest."

Ernest L. Matthews, of Wells, the first to reach the scene of the accident, said that Hall pointed out to him where Mrs. Hall fell. The water was only eight or 10 inches deep. He helped Hall carry the unconscious woman from the rough place where she lay and when they reached the place where they intended to put her down Hall dropped his wife, remarking, "Matthews, then started for a doctor and Hall insisted that Ida Matthews should also go.

After Mrs. Hall was removed to her home she regained consciousness and recognized Dr. Pitt and also Mrs. Stevens and pleaded with Mrs. Stevens to remain with her. He had observed Hall and Kate Gerow walking together on two occasions before the accident.

When Matthews finished his testimony Sheriff Roberts took Hall from the courtroom.

Ida Matthews was the next witness and corroborated her father, and added the information that Hall used her not to approach the edge of the bridge because she might fall, and because the sight would not do properly for her to see. She recalled that on the occasion at Sunday school Hall carried his daughter Frances when the child objected to having "Katie" Gerow sit with her.

Mrs. Frances Stevens of Columbin, mother of the dead woman, was next called. Hall's hands and lips trembled as he watched her walk toward the witness chair, but he controlled his emotions. Those sitting near him saw tears glisten in his eyes.

Mrs. Stevens recited the details of her daughter's unhappiness when Hall told her that his infatuations for other women were only what other men did and that he didn't want to "tug around a sick wife." She testified that there were frequent quarrels, always for the same cause—other women.

Hall told her he went to the hospital with Minnie and stayed with her until she died. He said that Minnie regained consciousness long enough to talk with him and to extract his promise that he would take her savings and send Frances to the Normal Academy. On the day of the funeral, when he rode in the carriage with his dead wife's mother, he hummed snatches of hymns. Only once did he appear to feel sorrowful.

When the 14-year-old daughter of the accused preacher was called there was an air of expectancy in the courtroom.

The child did not glance toward her father as she took her seat, nor did she then forward him during recital of events in her mother's unhappy life. Frances said that her father and mother had quarrels twice every week and the cause was always the same—"his intimacies with other women." She said her mother would plead with him to not be so intimate with other women and he would deny that he was.

One time in the Sunday school at Wells Depot she saved a seat for another girl, "Katie" Gerow wanted to sit there, and Frances didn't want her to because she didn't care for "Katie." Her father struck her with a song book and told her to make less noise. She said that another cause for quarrels at home was her father's continued absence from home at night. When her mother asked him to stay at home, he said he'd stay home when he pleased. Once when the child added with her mother her father struck her.

On the day of the tragedy she started to do the dishes. Her father told her to leave them and he would do them. Then her father and mother started quarreling. That was the last time she saw her mother alive. Her father told her the next day that her mother fell from the bridge, and he described how heroically he plunged in to save her. When they went to Harrington with the body her father whistled and sang and didn't appear to be grieved at all.

John P. Payne, station agent at Wells Depot, and considered one of the state's most important witnesses, was the center of attraction to the Wells people. He is said to have started the inquiry which led up to the investigation and arrest of the preacher. When Payne walked into the courtroom there was an audible hiss, but the court officers were unable to single out the person who emitted it.

RED CROSS WORK IN LONDON

(By Associated Press)
London, August 29.—More than 600 American women in all parts of Great Britain are now enrolled in the "Care Committee" of the American Red Cross, the headquarters of which is in London, in charge of Mrs. Robert Peel Skinner, wife of the Consul General. There are sub-committees in twenty cities in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland.

The "Care Committee" is immediately notified of the arrival in any hospital of an American soldier, sick or wounded, whether he belongs to the American army or to the British or Canadian forces. Every such soldier is visited at least once a week and is supplied with comforts of various kinds, including, whenever possible, copies of the local newspapers of his home town.

More than 5000 Americans in hospitals have received personal calls from the women of the care committee during the past few weeks, and the number of soldiers visited will soon reach a monthly average of nearly 6000. The visitors make a special effort to get the men into touch with their relatives and friends at home. Useful things to wear, made by the mothers and sisters, are actually placed in the hands of their boys by these American women visitors.

RED CROSS WORKERS ARE WANTED

Monday being Labor Day, there will be no work at the Red Cross work rooms, but on Wednesday it is hoped that all of the surgical dressing workers, both sterile and non-sterile, will appear for work.

An allotment of 1200 blue packets, which is the emergency dressing packet that each soldier takes into the first line trench, and which is the means of saving a vast number of lives, has been received and the Portsmouth Chapter is anxious to get these out as soon as possible. Each packet requires a number of different dressings and there is a vast amount of work so that the committee is sending out an emergency call to all those who can possibly help.

On Thursday there is the sewing and here there is also a considerable amount of work that is required as soon as possible. This is the time when Red Cross work is very much needed and everybody who can possibly spare the time will be doing a patriotic duty by reporting at the Red Cross work room.

The ward and other buildings which are almost completed are on a slope that gently rises from the sea to be topped at its crest by a fringe of giant beech trees in front of which is the old mansion house. The old home is being attractively fitted as a nurses home to accommodate eighteen of the thirty nurses to be sent here.

While there has been very little sickness among the personnel at the American Destroyer Base, a hospital has been needed. The buildings were constructed on the "knocked down" plan, shipped here and are now being placed together. By September 1 it will be ready for 250 patients.

The hospital will have its own garden, raise its own poultry and maintain its own small dairy. Already the sailors have turned farmers. Pastures on the estate afforded a good hay crop. The barn has been filled with it and there is a fair sized stack in a field ready for the stock that is to come.

R. R. CAN RETAIN STEAMERS

Washington, Aug. 30.—Authority was granted to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company by the Interstate Commerce Commission Thursday to continue its operation of steamer and barge lines through subsidiary companies. The railroad's petition had been before the commission since Jan. 6, 1914.

The subsidiaries are the New England Navigation, the New England Steamship and the New Bedford, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket Steamboat companies, operating steamers between points in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York, and tugs and lighters in New York and Boston harbors.

Under present conditions the commission holds that the water services are being operated in the interest of the public and are of advantage to commerce and convenience to the people. Tariffs of steamship companies must be filed by Oct. 1, next.

No time limit for the railroad's operation of water lines is fixed by the order, but it was forth that "action in the future is dependent on circumstances and conditions."

After the War.

There are all sorts of predictions as to conditions that will follow the war. Some think that many American soldiers will become enamored of the foreign countries in which they are fighting and will decide to remain there, and others are of the opinion that conditions in the countries that are now suffering the ravages of war will be such as to present the most inviting business and industrial openings, and that for this reason the volume of immigration to this country will for years be much smaller than it has been in the past.

But all this is pure guess work, and the chances are that it is poor guessing. This paper is fully conscious of the truth of the old saying, "It is safer to be historian than prophet," yet it is willing to risk the prediction that very few American soldiers will remain abroad after the close of the war and that immigration to these shores will soon resume its old-time proportions unless restricted by action on the part of the United States government.

So far as the soldiers are concerned, it would be strange if many of them should decide to make their homes in foreign lands. Their letters show that they are pleased with the beauties of France and England, but this country is their home and the great majority of them will be glad to get back to it as soon as possible after the end of their services on foreign soil ceases to exist. The tone of most of the soldiers' letters plainly indicates this.

And there is reason to believe that immigration will soon become extensive in spite of the rebuilding that will have to be done in the countries devastated by the war. Contact by foreign soldiers and civilians with the American troops will give them a good idea of what this country is. They already know that American soldiers are better fed and cared for than any others in the world, and they cannot fail to have a high opinion of the country that could put such an army in the field on short notice and care for it as it is being cared for. It will be natural for foreigners in possession of these facts—not from reading or hearsay, but from personal observation—to want to come to a country of such unequalled resources and unlimited advantages.

It is impossible to tell at this time just what conditions will follow the close of the war, but the chances are that those who are fearing a sag in business and a more or less extended period of dull time will find themselves mistaken. There will be a vast amount of building up to be done after the struggle is over, and while the booms that are being experienced by some industries will cease there will be legitimate work for all, and the probability is that the country will enjoy more genuine prosperity than ever before in its history.

Such is the prediction of this paper. Pin it to the calendar and move it from the old calendar to the new as many times as may be necessary, and see, when the time comes, how far we are out of the way.

Every right-minded community is proud to have its school houses filled, yet they should never be overcrowded. It looks as if the schools of this city would be when the fall term opens next month, but as the new building at Atlantic Heights will soon afford relief the school authorities and the public are in a mood to make the best of the temporary inconvenience.

Labor Day is to be properly observed in this city, and not the least of the attractions will be the concert to be given in the evening at Market Square by the Portsmouth City Band, one of the best in this part of New England. An excellent program will be rendered and if the weather is pleasant it will be enjoyed by an audience that will pack the square.

The manufacture of pleasure cars is to be greatly curtailed until further orders, the steel consumed being needed by the government for war uses. As this paper said some time ago, if there must be curtailment of manufacture the pleasure car is a good thing on which to begin. On this point the government and the manufacturers themselves are agreed.

It will be interesting to note how far Sunday joy riding by automobile will be cut out in response to a simple request. It is to be feared that if the fuel administrator means business in this latest effort to conserve fuel he will have to issue the order he so plainly hints at.

The Germans, according to an outgoing from staff headquarters, are seeking to "weaken the enemy by retiring far to the rear." And so completely is "the enemy" in sympathy with this movement that he is doing his best to expedite it.

In dealing with the offending suffragists in Washington the course of the government is little, if any, less foolish than that of the women. The whole business is a pitiable spectacle as viewed from any angle.

BRIGHTON PUT OUT OF RUNNING

Case is Brought Against Horse Trading Mart by Town of Epping.

Exeter, August 30.—"Brighton" which has been run for nearly half a century, has been practically put out of business by County Solicitor William M. Sleeper, Wednesday before the Epping municipal court John Dolan of Lowell, Mass., Nelson Ferguson of Manchester and Oscar Sheldon of Middleton, Mass., were before Judge Geo. Gilmore, charged with being idle persons, though conducting the old horse trading rendezvous near the camp grounds. They were brought in on a complaint by the town of Epping.

Upon the suggestion of their counsel William Hickey of Epping, the case was continued, but if they vacate the grounds it will not be pressed against them, which practically is equivalent to putting the time worn resort out of the running for the remainder of the season.

It is a strange fact that the horse traders have been doing business there for many years at the time of the fledgling camping, although the authorities have driven them back each year further away from the grounds.

Lucius E. Darling, a colored resident of Epping, was before Judge George A. Gilmore in the Epping municipal court on a charge of forgery of a check of $35. on D. W. Ladd. He was found guilty and held in $500. bonds for the October term of superior court. The check was on the First National bank of Portsmouth. After the trial it was found that he had also played the same trick on Judge Gilmore himself, and also on Luddy Brothers. The case was prosecuted by County Solicitor William M. Sleeper.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Wasting Money on the Depot.

Editor Herald:—The Boston and Maine railroad have decided at last to remove the roof of the depot and rearrange one of the tracks nearby for the good of the service, but why waste any more money on this shack which has been standing since 1864. No resident at Portsmouth will contradict the statement that the railroad in the past 25 years has expended enough money on Portsmouth depot to cover two-thirds the expense of the construction of a new depot and the Boston and Maine is just as bad off today as far as a depot is concerned.

During the above mentioned period the railroad has spent thousands and thousands of dollars on general repairs, water, piping, sewers, steam heating, changing baggage rooms, altering waiting rooms and restaurant, painting, taking up and replacing plat forms, painting slating roof, continuous repainting of antiquated lighting system and track work and what has the company got?

The depot is not as good as it was 25 years ago as far as the necessary room is concerned. After the present patch work is completed, it will be worse than ever. Passengers will either be obliged to stand out in the cold as it will be impossible to find room in the waiting rooms which have been growing smaller in space for the past five years.

A visit to the depot on the arrival or departure of any train will convince one of these facts. Men smoking cigarettes and pipes are mixed up with women and children. Workmen from the shipyards, and navy yards often occupy what seats there are while women stand or walk outside on the platforms.

The Boston and Maine has for years gathered in great revenue from the passenger business at Portsmouth and today the business receipts here have broken all past records in both freight and passenger service.

It is admitted by all railroad men as well as the traveling public that Portsmouth needs the attention of the government administration in the way of a new depot or such alterations that will bring it some where up to the needs of the public and the railroad.

A PATRON OF THE ROAD FOR YEARS.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Navy Promotions.

Thirteen captains of the navy were nominated on Thursday for the temporary grade of rear admiral. They are: George R. Clark, William A. Gill, Harold P. Norton, Gustav Kaemmerling, Alexander S. Halstead, Roger Welles, Charles P. Plunkett, William H. G. Bullard, Joseph W. Oman, Philip Andrews, Josiah S. McKean, Benton C. Decker, Mark L. Bristol.

Navy Balking.

Determined opposition will be made by naval officials if it was learned today to every effort to consolidate the naval aviation divisions with that of the army under Assistant Secretary of War John D. Ryan. It would be unwise, in the opinion of naval experts, even to interrupt the separate construction programme covering navy machines which now is resulting in large deliveries each week.

Picking Good Place to Go. Dr. H. R. Tibbets of the local yard dispensary has been granted a furlough which he will enjoy at Caribou, Me., with a camping party.

Out With Recruiting Party. Dr. T. C. Quirk and Yeoman John Dowd of the yard dispensary are members of the navy yard recruiting party searching for workmen for the Industrial Department in different sections of Vermont.

In Washington. Lieut. Comdr. Thomas M. Osborne, commanding the naval prison, is on an official trip to Washington where he will pass a week on business at the department.

Both Bones Broken. John E. Wats, a general helper residing in Kittery, was injured today while engaged in cranking one of the yard motor trucks, both bones of the right forearm being broken. He was treated at the yard hospital.

To Put Fleet in Parade. Several of the labor organizations made up mostly of men from the local yard will have floats in the parade on Monday. Already the spar shop and the paint shop have arranged for this appropriate display and other shops are hustling to do the same.

duty here as well as over there. We must make American womanhood and American childhood safe in any part of this globe or ours.

Mr. Schwab praised Charles Piez, vice president and general manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation who was the next speaker. Mr. Schwab said: "I kind of touch the high spots. Piez does the real work." Mr. Piez said it was easier to sign contracts than "ships delivered." "Because we want to send increasing numbers across we must have more ships. Is there anything that would justify your abandoning the work?" "No," was the response from the thousands of workmen. "Let us selfish purpose stop you, you are here to do your duty as well as the men in the trenches, as much as the soldier and sailor."

The luncheon served at the Hotel Wentworth at one o'clock proved very successful. There were fifteen plates at the head table. Mayor Ladd presided. Major Hartford was toastmaster. Mr. Schwab spoke at the Atlantic Corporation this afternoon. At five o'clock he will leave by auto for Boston where he will take his special car for New London.

The committee from the Board of Commerce who welcomed and entertained Mr. Schwab was as follows: Mayor S. T. Ladd, F. M. Sloc, Pres. and Major F. W. Hartford. The committee from the shipyards, Atlantic, Pres. A. A. Shumpe, Vice Pres. Walter Clarke, and General Manager H. C. Raynes; Shattuck, President L. H. Shattuck, Vice Pres. Robert Jackson, and General Manager G. S. Sewins. The committee in charge of the dinner at Hotel Wentworth was made up of Major F. W. Hartford, President She of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Ladd.

GOVERNOR KEYES EXTENDS GREETINGS.

The following is the copy of the telegram sent by Governor Keyes to Mr. Charles M. Schwab:

Concord, N. H. 11:30 a. m. Aug. 29, 1918.

Mr. Charles M. Schwab,

Care F. W. Hartford,

Portsmouth, N. H.

"The State of New Hampshire extends to you greetings of welcome which I regret that I cannot offer in person. We are proud of our brief but beautiful and historic coast line and we rejoice that our sea port city is so usefully active in the nation's service with its ship yards and its navy yard. Your keen and practiced vision will perceive at once from its location the important possibilities for its development."

HENRY W. KEYES, Governor.

BROKE INTO WOMAN'S ROOM FOR HER MONEY

Mary Smith a resident of McDonough street ran into officer Kelley on Congress street between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning and reported that Oliver Metcreek, a next door neighbor had broken into her room and demanded her money, saying that he would blow her head off if she refused. She escaped from the house and ran for the police.

Metcreek was arrested at his home later and brought to the station. Today he was heard in court and the case was continued until Sept. 5.

CAUTION TO USERS OF WORLD TRADE DIRECTORY

A word of caution has been sounded by Ansel H. Clark, Manager of the Boston office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, to manufacturers and importers who are conducting correspondence with neutral countries. Through the War Trade Board, it has come to the attention of the Bureau that American firms have been attempting to correspond with certain concerns in neutral countries, whose names appear on the Enemy Trading List, and that in many instances the names of these enemy firms have been taken from the "World Trade Directory" published by the Department of Commerce and Labor in 1911.

Notice is hereby given to those who may have in their possession a copy of this directory, that no letter should be addressed to any person or firm in a neutral country without a careful examination of the Enemy Trading List which may be secured from the War Trade Board. Since the outbreak of the war, there have been numerous changes in the ownership and business management of many concerns listed in this directory. Furthermore, nearly eight years have elapsed since its compilation. For these reasons, the use of this directory is discouraged by the Bureau, which now has on hand more recent information and trade lists.

WHAT YOUR DOLLAR HAS SHRUNK TO

Washington, Aug. 30.—Comparison of food prices prevailing now with those of five years ago shows that the purchasing power of a dollar bill has shrunk to 54 cents in Washington and Baltimore, 57 cents in Philadelphia, 55 cents in New York and Chicago, and 63 cents in San Francisco, according to a statement today by the Department of Labor.

Food which could be bought for $1 in July, 1913, now costs $1.85 in Washington, $1.81 in Baltimore, $1.77 in Philadelphia, $1.63 in New York, $1.69 in Chicago, and $1.53 in San Francisco. From July, 1917, to July, 1918, food prices advanced 22 per cent in San Francisco, 20 per cent in Washington and Philadelphia, 17 per cent in Baltimore, 17 per cent in New York and 11 per cent in Chicago.

PLEASURE CARS ONLY AFFECTED

(By Associated Press) Washington, Aug. 30.—Prohibition of the use of gasoline on Sundays for motor vehicles and boats applies only to pleasure riding. Fuel Administrator Garfield announced. He said today that reasonable use of gasoline driven vehicles for necessary purpose was not intended to be prohibited. "The request made by the Fuel Administration," said a statement issued at the Administration, "that pleasure riding be discontinued on Sundays in order to conserve our supply of gasoline for war needs was not intended to prohibit use of gasoline driven vehicles as a means necessary transportation where no other means are available. The intention of the request is that all mere pleasure riding be eliminated, but that necessary use of automobiles be not interfered with." While taxicabs were not mentioned in the statement. It was said informally that restrictions would not prevent taxi service for necessary purposes but there should be no hiring of taxicabs for pleasure riding. The use of pleasure automobiles on Labor Day and other holidays does not come under the restriction so imposed. Officials said, however, persons desiring to use pleasure cars on Labor Day should look into their own conscience to determine whether they should use gasoline on that day.

JUST DAVID

By ELEANOR H. PORTER

Author of "Follyana"

Ten year old David and his father (a famous violinist) lived on a mountain, with the woods, the wild things, and their two violin. Then a change came and David was left to the care of gruff farmer folk in whom the warmth of kindness was buried deep. But "Just David" brought music and sunshine into many lives and played a part in a very pretty romance.

JUDGE ALLEN BACK ON BENCH

Nashua, Aug. 30.—The news of the withdrawal of his resignation by Judge John B. Allen of the superior court was something of a sensation among Nashua lawyers and politicians. Friends of Henry C. Eaton had made it clear that they expected that he would be named as successor to the justice, who left the bench to undertake war work in Washington connected with the department of justice.

It was pointed out to both Governor Hayes and Councilor Swart that Nashua has had but one justice of the state or county court in its history, since it became a city. The city also had another candidate for the place, Marshall Cobleigh. It was generally conceded that the judgeship ought to come to this counsellor district in which Judge Allen resides.

Judge Allen has been on the bench only a little over a year and was one of the Governor Hayes appointments. Chief Justice Kivel has been notified of the withdrawal and has assigned Judge Allen to hold court at Woodsville, beginning Sept. 10.

NO POLICE PROTECTION IN LONDON

(By Associated Press)

London, Aug. 30.—London, outside of the little square mile comprising the city proper, has practically been without police protection since midnight when the famous metropolitan police force went on a strike. Traffic was left to regulate itself and to special constables. Private citizens, enlisted for the duration of the war to assist the regulars, turned out in hundreds to do the work of the Bobbies. Union leaders said ten thousand men were out. Traffic proceeded as usual. Drivers, many of whom were themselves on strike a week ago, regulated the movement of vehicles and there was little crowding.

WELL PLEASED WITH ADDRESS OF MISS LENT

Nurses Hear Noted Woman at the Woman's Building

The fifty or more nurses from this city, navy yard and other sections were well repaid on Thursday evening for the time which they gave at the Woman's Building on Middle street, where Miss Mary E. Lent, associate secretary of the National organization of Public Health Nurses, gave a very able address. Miss Lent was introduced by Miss Jessie MacFarlane, vice president of the Portsmouth Graduate Nurses' Association, and ably handled her discourse from start to finish.

The audience gave close attention to the entire address which embraced the following subjects: "Work in the Communities," "Duties of the Public Health Nurses" and "Need of Nurses in War Work."

Each subject was instructive and interesting and Miss Lent proved she was thoroughly acquainted with facts. Following her address at the Woman's Building she spoke at Music Hall.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Thirteen candidates of the navy were nominated yesterday for the temporary grade of Rear Admiral. They are George R. Church, William A. Gill, Harold P. S. McKean, Benton C. Dicker and Mark L. Bristol.

The number of nominations transmitted yesterday by the President. It was believed by veteran Senate employees, broke all records for a single day. Besides 2000 postmasters, the President also offered about 2500 Army and Navy officers, mostly promotions in the lower grades.

OTT'S CLOSING ENGAGEMENTS

Bob Ott and his capable company entered upon their closing performance at the Colonial Theatre on Thursday evening with a packed house. His offering was "The Merry Wives of Goodwin," and it was another laugh from beginning to end. This evening there will be a fashion show that promises to be very interesting.

Mr. Ott in the two weeks has played to the greatest number of people that any attraction ever showed in his city.

BOARD OF REGISTRARS.

The Board of Registrars will be in session at City Hall on the following dates, August 13, 16, 20, 23, 27, and 30 from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 5, and 7 to 9 p. m., to prepare checklists for the Primary Election of September 3, 1918.

Also on election morning from 8 to 12 to grant certificates to such legal voters whose names may have been omitted from the lists.

Mid-Summer Reductions

Clean-Cut Saving in Summer Stock

Despite existing trade conditions, this is a real old fashioned mark-down event which is bound to whet the appetite of the keenest bargain hunter. The price reductions are genuine through and through and will exceed the expectations of the most economical shopper, because of the fact that this month we simply must clear all out the remaining summer stock and that fall and winter goods are pressing hard for recognition. We are showing scant courtesy to former prices, thereby offering fine bargains to those economy-wise people who know extraordinary values when they see them. Are you one of them?

WELDING WILL REPAIR IT

What often appears to be a serious, ruinous crack or break in a cylinder, casting or piece of machinery, is but a simple place of repair work to our Expert Welders. Our welding works wonders in repairing broken metal parts—parts that would have to be "scraped" before the process was invented. Remember, our welding generally makes the broken part stronger than it ever was. Inquiries invited.

GREENLAND

Greenland, Aug. 30.—Under the auspices of the Helping Hand society and directed by Mrs. George Sewall, "The Old Peabody Play" was most attractively presented by local talent at the Congregational church Thursday evening. Christmas decorations of red and green proved a pleasant novelty for August and lent an appropriate setting for the play. Old fashioned costumes were worn. The cast of characters follows: Prologue, Reader of each act, Miss Lillian Odell; Justin Peabody, a slow lover, Timothy Hildeout; Nancy Wentworth, Justin's sweetheart, Miss Bertha Ware; Mrs. Burbank, president of the Helping Hand society, Mrs. Mabel Holmes.

ORDER WILL WORK HARDSHIPS ON SOME

The new order of the Fuel Administration to the public to cease the use of automobiles with a few named exceptions on Sundays until further notice comes as a hardship at this time. Next Monday being Labor Day many local men, employed during the week, had planned to take their families to their former homes to visit relatives over the double holiday. Many have little time to use their cars during the week, yet people of means may drive automobiles as much as they please during week days. It seems as if this new order affects more the man who is busily employed and has only Sunday for his recreation, as certainly there are many car owners who use a much larger quantity of gasoline during the week than the working man who drives his car only on Sundays for a few hours of recreation.

PRISONER GETS AWAY FROM THE GUARD HOUSE

Several Hours Hunt Fail to Get Trace of the Fugitive.

A prisoner escaping from Port Commission between 2 and 3 o'clock on Thursday morning caused quite a little excitement at New Castle. The prisoner had been confined to the guard house and is said to have made his way out of the reservation near the main gate.

Three shots were fired by the sentry and it is evident that neither struck the fleeing prisoner as he kept on going and was soon lost in the nearby woods.

One or more companies were called who searched during the remainder of the night and a greater part of the day up to today the searching parties were unable to pick up any trace of the fugitive.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

At a special meeting of the Council held last evening there was a working of the first degree. At the conclusion of the meeting the members presented Grand Knight James J. Hickey with a K. of C. charm as a mark of respect to Mr. Hickey, who leaves today to join the service. Mr. Hickey goes to Camp Opton, with the limited service quota from the district. He requested the local board to advance his number that he might be called at this time.

This makes the twentieth member of the K. of C. to join the army.

Mr. Hickey carries with him the best wishes of all the members of the local Council and his host of friends about the city who wish him the best of luck in his new life.

LABOR UNIONS GETTING READY FOR BIG PARADE

Many Features Expected—
Thousands Will Witness the Event on Monday

Every organization which will take part in the Labor Day parade on Monday are working on the final plans for the same.

According to the outlook this parade will eclipse any ever held in Portsmouth of its kind. Every manufacturing plant will close for the day and every available man connected with organized labor will be in line.

Each body will have its appropriate marching rig and floats will be numerous. The men are out to make it the biggest yet and the industrial bodies have spared no expense to fix up for the day set apart for the annual event. Thousands of people from the surrounding cities and towns will witness the parade.

HAS NOT MET BOND INTEREST

Following the Treaty of Portsmouth in 1905 Russia and Japan gave $10,000 each to be used as a charitable fund in New Hampshire, of which the Portsmouth Hospital receives the sum of $200, each year. For the second time since the fund was established Russia has failed to meet her part of the interest. The money was invested in war bonds by both nations.
